Guest Speaker – Harriet Marshall – Get Organised

Harriet Marshall, UK born and SA based, has a background in retail and operations management. She joined Get Organised in 2009 as a licensee and dedicates herself full-time to speaking, training and working with clients 1-2-1. She is passionate about sharing her skills and expertise to help you become more productive and less stressed through being more organised. Harri contributes to several online newsletters and was featured as an organising expert on e-TV's Fresh Living Lifestyle programme in September last year and will appear in this year's June issue of Oprah's "O" magazine.

KEY COMPANY FACTS

Since 2002, Get Organised has been devoted to helping individuals and businesses get organised. The benefits of this offering are, simply, a massive reduction in personal stress, increased productivity and more time to think clearly and relax. A Lasting Solution

In the process of becoming more organised our aim is to make sure you retain your sense of humor and that you do not become someone you are not. We provide a reputable service that focuses on a sustainable solution for individuals and companies. Many people are daunted by the thought of even starting to get organised. We walk you through the process with small steps ensuring that you never go backwards or run out of steam. Our relationship with our clients is personal and unique – it is our ability to understand every situation that enables us to provide these lasting solutions.

Through being Organised you will:

- Accomplish more at work and at home
- Gain control of your surroundings
- Find things faster
- Create streamlined processes
- Meet important deadlines
- Improve your quality of life

Personal 'hands on' organising sessions

A cluttered space is a cluttered mind. We help individuals and businesses to take control of their surroundings, their time, their paper, their possessions and their systems for life.

Training & Workshops

Inspirational, solution driven workshops and talks offered to groups to empower delegates to take action within their space, optimise their time and live a balanced life.

Organising Products

We are constantly looking at ways to make your life easier. We have an exciting range of workshop DVD's and other organising products to help you take action.
